WARNED OF ICE, ISMAY SAID: WILL GO FASTER

ISMAY DEFENDS HIMSELF: DECLARES SENATE INQUIRY AND HIS CRITICS UNFAIR

Left Titanic "Only When Women and Children Were Off," and "Took No Man's Place."

Protesting that his conscience is absolutely clear and that he would never have another happy moment of life if he believed himself to have done the least injustice to a passenger of the Titanic, J. Bruce Ismay, Mansains Director of the White Star Line, says he will sail for England the moment the Senatorial Investigating Committee has finished with him.

Mr. Ismay bitterly resents the accusations that are being brought

"What do you think I am? Do you believe that I'm the sort that would have left that ship as long as there were any women or children aboard her? That's the thing that hurts, and it hurts all the more because it's so This is the way he began to talk when asked the question that has en tossed about since his name first appeared upon the list of survivors, which grew sharper and more insistent when the report was spread he had got away from the Titanic among the first of the lifeboat fleet. "It's so utterly false," he exclaimed, his naturally low voice rasping and cracked under his pervous strain. That he is not far away from a lete breakdown is palpable. He seeks to hide the tension under a sang The ready half smile that comes at his bidding is plainly forced.

Every nerve is twitching, and it is only by strong self-control he holds them in check. How long he can control himself is a question. He was seen after testifying before the Senate Committee.

This whole thing seems unfair-horribly unfair. Why, I cannot even pretect myself by having my counsel ask questions intended to simplify involved meanings. A glaring example of this happened at the hearing when I was saked about rowing the boat and I said I had been at one of the oars. but had not seen the ship go down.

"At once I was asked how I could have failed to see her since, if roo ing. I must have been facing her. It would have been easy for my counsel to show that I was pushing at an oar which was being handled by two or three of us. There was not room for me to sit in the proper carsman's position, so I helped as best I could by shoving on the blade."

tomay is six feet tall and weighs about 180 pounds. He is straight and is erect carriage gives him a distinctive air. He is fifty and looks younger. tile complexion is warthy, his hair black and curly, his nose Roman. His type is distinctly Oriental.

His eyes are black and they glisten always. The mouth is well for sthough the lips seem thin and rather hard. The head is small. Bach of his features is small. His whole makeup denotes a life of case rather than one of strength, as if he were accustomed to having his own way se it is given him, rather than because he wins it.

From the disjointed manner in which he speaks it is evident that he has not yet recovered from the shock of shipwreck. He says-and his sets bear him out-that he has no clear recollection of many of the recureaces of the Sunday night and Monday morning of the tragedy.

"I have thought long over each single incident I could recall of the sk. I am sure that nothing wrong was done—that I did nothing that I hould not have done. My conscience is clear, and I have not been a lenient judge of my acts.

WAS ENTITLED TO HIS CHANCE.

Watch for Them

AS ENTITUED TO HIS CHANCE.

"I tell you that if I thought that in the slightest way I had done any—Magistrate Tells of the Cool Has Been Told Husband Is Five Orders of Sisters and folded in the arms of a sailor. Then me wrong I would never have another happy moment. I took the chance hen it came to me—I did not seek it. I repeat every woman and child ad been cared for before I left the boat.

"And more, all the men within reach had been taken care of pefore I solt my turn. And why shouldn't I take my turn? There are only two es on a ship—the crew and the passengers. I was a passenger.

"It is true I am president of the company, but where would you draw said to-day that his wife and her somewhat improved to-day at her Fifth dock on Thursday night the sweetest The two curiy-heads are children of excellent from taking his place in the lifetwo sisters. Mrs. Edward Appleton and Mrs. John Murray Brown of Denvar, who were among those rescued from the rest of the passengers. With me, as the Titanic, were resting, although all of them had undergone a fearful mental and physical strain.

Whom I entered my boat—the last to leave—I was practically the last Witing. There may have been others waiting for other boats to be lowered my, but I had no reason to suppose they would not get away all richs.

The two curiy-heads are children of excellent in the place in the lifetwo sisters. Mrs. Edward Appleton and Mrs. John Murray Brown of Denvar, serious, and she is allowed to see no one except her mother, Mrs. W. If.
Charity some might have called it, but them. Their first demand upon arising in the Hays home in the moirning is for their path. At the table they insist of the same opinion as many others

Winc. Cornell," said the Magistrate, "Is of the same opinion as many others of the survivers that his father was picked up on a cabins, from a worldly point of taught. be line? Would you stop a bondholder from taking his place in the life- two sisters. Mrs. Edward Appleton and avenue home, but her condition is still note that resounded along the place of

There may have been others waiting for other boats to be lowered "Is of the same opinion as many others of the survivors, that many of the life boats left the side of the Titanic before they had nearly their capacity.

Vincent Astor has not given up hope ond cabins, from a worldly point of the survivors, that many of the life boats left the side of the Titanic before they had nearly their capacity.

Vincent Astor has not given up hope ond cabins, from a worldly point of the survivors, that many of the life boats left the side of the Titanic before they had nearly their capacity.

Vincent Astor has not given up hope ond cabins, from a worldly point of the survivors, that many of the life boats left the side of the Titanic before they had nearly their capacity.

The passengers in the first conditions of the Titanic can give ond cabins, from a worldly point of the survivors, that many of the life boats left the side of the Titanic before they had nothing to tear. The women absolutely no hint as to their parentage. It is presumed that they boarded the was a good swimmer and could have of the steerage had lost their beloved they had nearly their capacity. y, but I had no reason to suppose they would not get those who they had nearly their capacity.

sure absolutely of one thing—that every woman, except those who they had nearly their capacity.

"Mrs. Cornell, with Mrs. Appleton, Mr. Ismay said he was anxious to get back to England as soon as "I should like to leave on the Lapland, but doubt I can. My wife and amily are naturally much disturbed. I have received cables imploring me fact, all of the boats, my wife says, lessly and indefinitely. Mrs. Astor is with fear and trembling; they did not return forthwith.

While I was on the Carpathia I had the thought of transhipping to There were three cars in the boat in which my wife and Mrs. Appleton were but I abandoned this plan without even distance to be when the jar was feit. We thought it was nothing, been anticipated. The widows and oristers arrived at the dock all unsupposes, as was printed here before I arrived. Also, there is another point I want to make plain; I had no hand whatever in any suppression of news.

I had pothing to do with the way in which the wireless was handled on the Carpathia."

The Rev. Father Henry of the Holy my maid and put on a light dress. Pretator in the cold. The my maid and put on a light dress and one petty officer.

"When the boat was lowered an Italian that he didn't think it was anything spen had been that they had been that they had dropped into fairy to look after the weifare of the Irish that he didn't think it was anything spen had been directed to God's own was seen struggling in the water and serious. He said that the ship had

H. B. HARRIS'S TWO THEATRES CLOSED.

Out of respect to Henry B. Harris, who grave up his life that the work as did the other women in and children might be saved when the Titande went down, the Hudson and the hast, and after duriffing about the sea for about four hours were picked. The Hudson Theatre was the Money of the Carpathia.

"Miss Edith Evans, a nice of Mrs. Herris producing playhouse, and in it with them, and she and Mrs. Brown Harris a producing playhouse, and in it with them, and she and Mrs. Brown the father, William Harris, when it based to his management itsel year.

Mrs. Harris, who was rescued, is still in a highly nervous state, but as the best without itself and the winter and and produced shoulder shoulder his the state of the fractured shoulder shoulder his dilly rescover. William the suffered as few days before the collision, it is thought that with rear and called the will fully rescover. William the during the sufficiency well under the shock.

For the present at least the business and had the respect of blue shapes of the should be the one to remain. Miss Evans, a handsome sirl of many years, Hill death has brought server to many years, Hill death has brought server to many years, Hill death has brought server we man and women in all branchs were on the brown and women in all branchs for many years, Hill death has brought server to the shape of the

To-Morrow's

Sunday World

Two Babies Who Were Tossed by Father From Sinking Titanic to Safety in Lifeboat TOSSED BABY BOYS COWARDLY MAN DISGUISED

LUMP" AND LOUIS AND

DIAGRAM OF U

MISS EVANS DIED

Heroism of Mrs. Cornell's Niece.

Police Magistrate Robert C. Cornell Mrs. John Jacob Astor was reported When the Carpathia swung into her

This boat when it was lowered con-tained twenty-three persons and she cause it is best for her in her nervous teen more without overcrowding. In condition not to worry and hope need-he was picked up. The three men then each took an oar and did the best they

Out of respect to Henry B. Harris, at the oars, as did the other women in

MRS. ASTOR KEPT TO HER ROOM, BUT DIRECTED FIRST AID MUCH IMPROVED

Certainly Dead, but Vincent Yet Hopes.

was assigned a place in the second boat. It is understood Mrs. Aster her had jority were landing in an unknown clothes, and went out on deck.

CARDINAL FARLEY

Heads of Missions Lightened Burdens of Poor.

clothes they were. They landed here can't tell.

Judge, then, of the surprise of these "We had gone to bed when the jar people to learn that their wants had serious. He said that the ship had land. There was a mysterious force mov-struck ice, but we didn't know then land. There was a mysterious force mov-that it was an iceberg. We didn't put on any heavy wraps, but ordinary light strasped every needy one, whether she of them. NONE WAS EXCITED, NONE
KNEW DANGER.

be in need of financial or spiritual aid.
This great work was done by the Sisters of Mercy, of Charity, the Sis-

TO SAFETY AS HE SANK WITH LINER

Father's Last Act Leaves Louis and Lump Orphans in a Strange Land.

hat were gropped, almost naked, from the deck of the sinking Titanic into the arms of survivors in a lifeboat? From which place in France did they come of information to be had as to the dentity of the walfs of the deep-the orphans of the Thank. The Evening World wants to know who they are and wants to find their relatives.

years old, respectively, are in charge of Miss Margaret Hays of No. 304 West Eighty-third street. Miss Hays is a fluent speaker of French and she has tried vainly to get from the lisping lips joined by Mr. Fortune and Charles. of the two tots some information that tives. Their father's last earthly act was to see to the saving of his bables. last departing lifeboats, and then, with the knowledge that his little lads were mete, he went to his death.

MISS HAYS ATTACHED TO THE LITTLE BOYS.

Titanic, took charge of the naked waits be women. on the Carpathia and still has them in her care. Miss Hays has become warm ly attached to the two boys, who un concernedly play about, not understanding the great tragedy that has come not wish to see them taken to an orphanage or adopted into a strange

The two little curly-heads do not understand it all. Has not their pretty them with pretty suits and little white hoes and playthings a-plenty? Then. oo, Miss Hays has a Pom dog that she brought with her from Paris and which the carried in her arms from the Titanic and held to her bosom through the long night in the lifeboat, and to which the children are warmly attached. All three are allens on an allen shore. subbed the older Louis and the younger Lump." "Lump" is all that his name implies, for he weighs almost as much and brown curly-haired children who know how to smile as only French children can.

On the fateful night of the Titanic disaster and just as the last boats were pulling away with their human freight a man rushed to the rail holding the almost naked babes under his arms. He cried to the passengers in one of the naked babes under his arms. He r four sailors and passengers held up he boat pulled away. The last seen of the father, whose last living act was to save his babes, he wan waving his hand in a final parting. Then the Titanic plunged to the ocean's bed.

THEIR MANNERS

GOOD BREEDING. The two curly-heads are children of

by some vessel. He declares his father view, had nothing to fear. The women absolutely no hint as to their parentage. It is presumed that they boarded that there had ones and their all besides. The majority were landing in an unknown jority were landing in an unknown told that there is no use hoping, because it is best for her in her nervous. They landed here can't tell.

But these tots of the Titanic can give absolutely no hint as to their parentage. It is presumed that they boarded that their help of a life beit, despite the coid. Jority were landing in an unknown father, probably a widower, was bringfing his babies to friends or relatives in America. But it is all presumption. So one knows and the two curly-heads absolutely no hint as to their parentage. It is presumed that they boarded that their beloved ones and that their beloved ones and their all besides. The majority were landing in an unknown father, probably a widower, was bringfing his babies to friends or relatives in America. But it is all presumption. So ones and their all besides. The majority were landing in an unknown father, probably a widower, was bringfing his babies to friends or relatives in America. But it is all presumption. So ones and their all besides. The majority were landing in an unknown father, probably a widower, was bringfing his babies to friends or relatives in the probably a widower. The probably a widower of the majority were landing in an unknown father, probably a widower, was bringfing his babies to friends or relatives in the probably a widower. The probably a widower of the majority were landing in an unknown father, probably a widower, was bringfing his babies to friends or relatives in the probably a widower of the majority in the probably a widower.

not what to do, who had no idea of how to take care of themselves. Consulting nobody the prelate had gone ahead in his own way. His min-

Omega Cold in Head Catarrh

Pour a teaspoonful of the Oil into a cup of boiling water and inhale the arising steam. You will be surprised at the relief that will follow Trial bottle too: large bottles age. a the

AS WOMAN GOT INTO BOAT

Mrs. Fortune Tells How Other Men, Maddened by Icy Seas, Tried to Capsize Frail Craft After Being Dragged From Water.

How one man escaped from the Titanic dressed in women's clothes even to hat and vell, when the ship's officers were not permitting men, with the exception of those who manned the lifeboats, to leave the sinking ship, was and to which place in the new world told by Mrs. Mark Fortune yesterday through her son-in-law, H. C. Hutton, were they bound? There is not one tota of Winnipeg, Manitoba. Mrs. Fortune, with ner daughters, Misses Lucile, Mabel and Alice, are at the Hotel Belmont. The husband and father and the son and brother of the family perished.

Mrs. Fortune was aroused by her son Charles knocking at the door of the cabin. He told her the ship had struck an iceberg and was in danger. The two baby boys, two and four About the same time a steward rushed through the passage and yelled: "There is no danger. This ship cannot sink!"

The women were not inclined to take things as calmly as the steward wanted them to and hurriedly dressed. On their way to the deck they were

At the stairway they were met by officers, who informed the father an! son that they would not be permitted to go any further. The women were instructed to get into a lifeboat, but still they did not realize the ship was danger. One of the Fortune girls called back to her brother:

"Charlie, you look after father!"

That was the only message that passed between them. The mother and daughters were placed in lifeboat 10. It was terribly overcrowded, Mrs. Fortune told her brother-in-law, and with the exception of a Chinaman, a stoker and four men who were to man the boat all in it were supposed to

It became necessary to transfer these four men to another boat, which was without a crew. This left only the Chinaman to row.

About this time the discovery was made that a veiled person in women's clothes was a man. He made no explanation as to why be was so dressed into their lives. But Miss Hays wants and none was asked of him, but that he had donned the clothes to escape to find relatives of the boys. She does with women when men were being held back to die there was no question. Nor did any one ask his name or learn it later.

The only request made of him was that he take an oar. This he did reluctantly. The Chinaman and stoker knew almost nothing about rowing and the man in women's clothes knew less. One of the Fortune girls and another girl got out an oar each and helped to pull away from the wreck. The family agreed that they were in the boat one hour after the liner struck. At 2.15 the next morning, as far as they can remember, they saw the stern of the Titanic hoist itself in the air. A crowd could be seen struggling. Shricks and yells came across the water to the crew of the tenth boat.

The bandsmen continued playing to the last, some with life preservers on their arms as they worked their instruments and others with the belts

Miss Hays has been unable to learn around their waists. Not one made an attempt to save himself, Mrs. Fortune was of the opinion that no discrimination was made beween passengers of the first, second or third classes in making the allot ments for seats in the boats. The rule applied only to the women, how-

> When the ship struck, several men in the steerage tried to rush the officers in charge of the lifeboats. At first the officers were able to keep them off by slugging them as they surged around them, but the passengers grew more terrified. Then the officers made use of their revolvers, first, to fire in the air and then to aim at the men.

> Mrs. Fortune and her daughters were spared the sight of a wholesale slaughter of the steerage passengers, but she saw at least one man go down. He was shot in the arm, and his fate intimidated the others. The men rushed off to another quarter of the ship to resume their attempts upon the boats.

CAUGHT IN ACT OF APPLYING MATCH

Detectives Carrao, Micelli, Castano Dondero, Giatano and Guaneri to-day caught a man they believe to be the cast side's worst bomb thrower. His capture was the result of a grimly earn-st campaign by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty to stop the blackmalling of Italian shopkeepers for the fund to get a new trial for Carlo Carlesi, recently sent to prison by Judge Rosalsky for twelve years and eleven months as the head of a band of marvellously skillful forgers who paint false signatures with a fine brush better than most forgers who paint false signatures with a fine brush better than most forgers who need a pen.

Calesi himself was ignorant, but he was a born leader of men and a master of cunning. He commanded those of the gang who escaped prison to get aught a man they believe to be the him out for a new trial. They lacked money. Many Italians were forced to buy a tawdry locket inacribed "Justice for Carles!." Many were told to give much larger sums on pain of being blown up.

A fishmonger, Lucarello France, ef No. 334 East Eleventh street, reported to the police three weeks ago that Gastano Imperato of No. 335 East Eleventh street, his neighbor in the block notorious for bomb explosions, had demanded $35 from him for the Carlesi fund and on his refusal had threatened a bomb explosion.

explosion.

Two weeks ago the explosion occurred.
Carrao and the other detectives were told that until they cought the bomb-thrower, they needn't do anything electronic cought and the store of Glovanni Branchetti, who had also refused to cought the store of the sto

The Only Way to Have a Clean Mouth DENTAL authorities have found, after a series of comparative tests, that ODOL is the only preparation which rids the mouth and teeth of all microbes.

Because in liquid form, ODOL penetrates to all parts of the mouth—some other preparations cannot do -it routs out all impurities, all food particles, acids, ete., so matter where they happen to hide. No foce of the teeth can survive ODOL. A few drops in a little water will keep your whole mouth, including your teeth, clean for hours afterward. All Druggista. Frice 50c.

GEO. BORGFELDT & CO. NEW YORK